This policy sets out how Atreides Industries communicates with investors and prospective investors in a consistent, controlled, and professional manner.

1. Purpose

To ensure information provided to investors is accurate, appropriately authorised, and shared in a way that protects company confidentiality, intellectual property, and operational security.

2. Authorised communications

Only authorised personnel may communicate on behalf of the Company regarding investment matters. Unless otherwise delegated, the authorised spokespersons are the CEO and COO.

3. Confidentiality and NDAs

We may require a signed NDA before sharing non-public information. Information shared via data rooms or investor packs is confidential and must not be redistributed without written permission.

4. Accuracy and record-keeping

- Communications must be factual, supportable, and consistent with approved materials.
- Forward-looking statements should be clearly identified and treated cautiously.
- We keep appropriate records of key investor communications and materials shared.

5. Public statements

Public statements must be coordinated and approved through the Company's communications process. We avoid publishing operationally sensitive details.

6. Breaches and escalation

Potential breaches should be reported promptly to the COO. Corrective action may include updating materials, issuing clarifications, and restricting future communications.

7. Review

This policy is reviewed at least annually and updated as required.
